03 FORGE REPORT

WHAT'S WORKING

- Real credentials and brand depth. The site names its Florida license (CVC56780) and lists genuine tier-1 equipment — Enphase, REC, Qcells, Panasonic and Silfab — which is real E-E-A-T most competitors leave off the page. (Content 6)
- Clear service-area copy. Pinellas, Hillsborough and Pasco counties are named in the meta description and body, so the geographic intent is at least stated in plain text. (Local 5)
- Responsive foundation with tap-to-call. A proper viewport tag and a tel:813-406-6501 link mean the phone is one tap away on mobile — the floor is solid. (Mobile 6)

WHAT'S COSTING YOU LEADS NOW

- No contact form anywhere — not even on the contact page. We found zero form elements and zero input/textarea fields across the homepage and the contact page; every lead is forced to call or email manually. For a high-consideration purchase like solar, that kills the after-hours quote request. (CRO 4)
- Zero structured data on the entire site. No JSON-LD of any kind — no Organization, LocalBusiness, or Service schema — so Google and AI assistants get no machine-readable name, address, phone, license or service area to quote. (Tech SEO 4)
- Images are effectively invisible to machines and screen readers. Only 4 of 56 homepage images and 3 of 51 contact-page images carry alt text — roughly 93% are unlabeled, hurting both accessibility and image search. (Accessibility 3)
- Dated builder template undercuts a premium product. Inline font tags and styling point to an older site-builder layout that reads cheaper than the tier-1 equipment being sold, weakening trust at the design level. (Design 5)

04 YOUR AI SEARCH BLIND SPOT

SEO + GEO · HOW MACHINES READ YOUR SITE

When a Tampa Bay homeowner asks an AI assistant — ChatGPT, Gemini, or Google's AI Overview — "who installs solar panels in Pasco County?", your site gives the model almost nothing structured to work with. There is no FAQ schema, no Organization or LocalBusiness JSON-LD, and no answer-shaped paragraphs the engine can lift and cite.

Your license number, the Enphase/REC/Panasonic line-up and the three-county service area are all sitting in plain prose rather than extractable data. So generative engines skip past you toward competitors whose pages are structured for retrieval — and more of these searches now start inside an AI assistant instead of a list of blue links.

05 AGENTIC & FUTURE READINESS

CAN AN AUTONOMOUS AI AGENT ACTUALLY USE YOUR SITE?

A growing share of solar quote requests will soon be initiated by AI agents acting for a homeowner — pulling your phone, service area, hours and a way to book. We probed whether your site exposes that in a machine-readable way:

An agent can find the tap-to-call number and the info@ email, but with no structured NAP, no schema and no booking form it cannot confirm hours or service area or submit a lead — so it moves on to a competitor it can actually transact with. This door is open today and closing fast.

// agent-access probe
Semantic HTML5 landmarks ..... PARTIAL    builder divs and font tags; few section/nav roles
robots.txt bot permissions .... UNVERIFIED llms.txt ..... ABSENT
Machine-readable NAP ..... ABSENT    name/address/phone in text, no schema
Tap-to-call & mailto hooks .... PRESENT    tel: and mailto: both found

THE DISCONNECT BETWEEN REPUTATION AND VISIBILITY

You hold a strong 4.7 rating across 187 reviews — credible social proof in a crowded Tampa Bay solar market. Yet with no LocalBusiness schema and no reviews surfaced on the site itself, that reputation is largely invisible at the exact moment someone searches or asks an AI assistant for a recommendation.

Tampa competitors like Lunex Power and Tampa Bay Solar carry far heavier review volume, so structured local signals and on-page proof are how you stay in the consideration set rather than getting outranked on raw count.

07 ACCESSIBILITY & COMPLIANCE

SCORE 3 / 10 · INCLUDED BECAUSE IT'S BELOW THRESHOLD

A portion of your potential customers — and Google's own ranking systems — depend on an accessible site. We found gaps that are both a legal-exposure risk and a quiet ranking drag:

// accessibility & compliance probe
Image alt text ..... MINIMAL    ~4 of 56 homepage images labeled
ARIA landmark roles ..... SPARSE  builder divs, few roles
Semantic headings ..... SPARSE    headings wrapped in font color tags
Contact form labels ..... ABSENT   no form exists to label
Cookie consent notice .... ABSENT

Adding alt text to the ~93% of unlabeled images is the priority fix — it lifts accessibility, image search and AI readability in one pass.

08 THE 30-DAY PLAN

WEEK 1

Capture the lead

Add a real quote-request form on the homepage and contact page so after-hours interest converts instead of bouncing.

WEEK 2

Make the images count

Write descriptive alt text for the project photos and equipment images so screen readers, image search and AI can read them.

WEEK 3

Open the AI door

Add LocalBusiness + Service + FAQ JSON-LD with NAP, license CVC56780, brands and the three-county service area.

WEEK 4

Modernize and convert

Refresh the dated template, surface the 4.7/187 reviews on-page, and add a sticky mobile call bar.

09 BOTTOM LINE

THE ONE THING THAT MATTERS MOST

Coast To Coast Solar pairs a licensed, tier-1-equipment offer and a solid 4.7/187 reputation with a dated builder site that has no contact form, no structured data, and almost no image alt text. The single highest-leverage move is adding a real quote-request form plus LocalBusiness and FAQ schema, so both homeowners and AI assistants can actually capture and quote the business. Recovering even a handful of the after-hours quote requests now lost to a phone-only path would pay for the rebuild many times over.
